Let's coin a new word in talking about caring for the windows of the soul. Let's call it "Eyeology."

And first it must be remembered the important thing is to be born with pretty eyes. If your eyes are small, or misty pale, or squinty, or ill-formed, all the care in the world cannot make them beautiful.

But granted that your eyes are well formed, of good color and without defect, the thing is to take care of them, just as you would take care of any other part of your body. If nature gives you the start, it is up to you to do the rest.
